On November 24, 2022, the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture opened a one-window financial response to help the industry recover from extraordinary costs caused by Hurricane Fiona. The Fiona Agriculture Disaster Assistance (FADA) will provide support through the provincial Disaster Financial Assistance Arrangements for small businesses, and any future federal or provincial assistance program as they are developed. Losses and damages will be categorized into five main streams: equipment and infrastructure, crops and cropping, livestock and feeds, agricultural and debris clean-up, fuel and alternative power expenses.
