

Prime Minister Trudeau and his counterparts from the US and Mexico are signing the USMCA agreement today. Following this, each country needs to ratify the deal before it comes into force, probably in mid-2019.

Dairy Farmers of Canada, provincial marketing boards and processors have all raised further concerns with the final text. Please follow the link below to read their letters to the PM. This latest twist to the USMCA impact on our industry further disappoints both producers and processors across the country.

Members of our Executive met with Premier McNeil, along with our Agriculture and Trade Ministers, this week to describe the overall negative impacts of USMCA on our industry and rural communities. We received the full support of the provincial government who need to put pressure on the federal government for fair and full mitigation of those impacts.

We will circulate further updates and they become available.
